

Contact

MX

+52 5522141568 (Mobile)

eduardo.caj@me.com

www.linkedin.com/in/eduardocaj

(LinkedIn)

Top Skills

Brand Building

Investment cases

Board Presentations

Languages

English (Native or Bilingual)

Spanish (Native or Bilingual)

Portuguese (Professional Working)

Certifications

Project Management Professional

Certified Scrum Product Owner
(CSPO)

Strategic Marketing

Data Analysis

Honors-Awards

James E. Burke Award

Circle of Champions

President's Outliers Award

Eduardo Castro

Marketing Director | Brand Growth, Cultural Relevance &
Commercial Impact | FMCG & CPG | Digital-First Strategy

Miguel Hidalgo, Mexico City, Mexico

Summary

Engineer-turned-marketer obsessed with how people choose what they buy and how brands move them.

13+ years in international FMCG (PepsiCo, J&J, Grupo Mariposa) managing P&Ls, launching products, and leading teams across the US and LATAM.

The project that best defines me is Doritos Rainbow. Born from personal conviction, it was launched the week of the Pulse massacre in Orlando. We paused, recalibrated, and sold out in one week instead of eight. It's been a Pride flagship ever since. PepsiCo's Mexico President awarded me with a Swiss Army pocketknife for being "multi-tool".

That's still the most accurate description of how I work.

If building brands that move both culture and market share is your kind of conversation, let's connect.

Experience

apex Consulting

Marketing Consultant

March 2024 - Present (2 years 1 month)

I help FMCG and consumer-facing brands grow across Mexico and the US, leading end-to-end strategy and execution with a team of 6.

The work spans brand strategy, digital performance, consumer research, and agency management across categories and markets. Every engagement is different. The methodology isn't.

Selected results:

- 20% CPC reduction through A/B testing for a FinTech client.

- +15% YoY sales growth through a disruptive GTM strategy for a drinks FMCG client.
- 35% drop-off reduction through consumer research and focus groups for a US telecom client.

Core skills: Marketing Consulting. Performance Marketing. A/B Testing. SEO. CRM. Google Analytics. Meta Business Suite. TikTok. Customer Acquisition. Campaign Management.

Grupo Mariposa

Marketing Director (Head of Marketing & Product Development)

April 2020 - February 2024 (3 years 11 months)

Most marketing directors inherit a brand. I built one from scratch, and a system to decide what was worth building.

At Grupo Mariposa I designed a full innovation pipeline with consumer validation at every gate: from 165 ideas filtered down to the concepts worth investing in, iterating over 20 recipe versions per SKU until hitting NPS thresholds. One product made it to market. That wasn't a failure rate, it was the methodology. Every discontinued concept protected budget and focus for the one worth scaling.

I owned the full value chain: research, R&D briefs, visual identity, creative and digital agencies, sourcing, 3PL, e-commerce, and first-year commercialization. And I defended every investment decision in front of the board with phased OKRs, CAPEX, and EBITDA projections.

The result: +35% revenue growth in a lean, digital-first export operation built from zero.

Core skills: Brand Strategy. Innovation Pipeline. Consumer Validation. P&L Management. Go-to-Market Strategy. New Product Development (NPD). Brand Building. Board Presentations. Investment Cases. Agency Management. Visual Identity. Digital Commerce.

Johnson & Johnson

Senior Marketing Manager

March 2017 - March 2020 (3 years 1 month)

Mexico City Area, Mexico

Responsible for balancing the global strategy and local needs for the region, designing and executing an innovation portfolio with a revenue growth priority while influencing the regional management team.

Some wins take years to unlock. Neutrogena's Sun Care line had been stalled in Mexico for four years, not for lack of effort, but for lack of the right diagnosis.

The barrier wasn't operational. Products with SPF 55+ require special regulatory treatment with COFEPRIS, Mexico's health authority. Previous attempts assumed a US import and relabeling model would work. It wouldn't. I mapped the full commercialisation process, identified the critical gates; when the sanitary registration number was needed, when samples had to be ready, what information clients needed to commit; and coordinated timing across regional production in Brazil and the local commercial team.

The result: a new category launched within two years, generating +10% incremental B2B revenue and new market share from zero.

Core skills: New Category Development. Portfolio Management. Multichannel Strategy. Shopper Marketing. LATAM. Consumer Insights. Earned Media. Remote Team Leadership. Health & Beauty.

PepsiCo

4 years

Innovation Commercialization Manager

December 2015 - March 2017 (1 year 4 months)

Mexico City Area, Mexico

This is where the transition from project manager to marketer became official, and where I got to prove what I could do with a blank canvas and a conviction.

I owned the full innovation pipeline for Doritos, Cheetos, Tostitos, and Quaker: end-to-end development, brand alignment, and commercialization of 60+ products annually across four brands.

The project that defined this chapter was Doritos Rainbow, PepsiCo's first purpose-driven product, contributing 100% of profits to LGBT+ allies NGOs. It sold out in one week instead of eight, generated 200M+ organic media impressions, grew brand SOM by +2.3%, and became an annual flagship campaign that still launches every Pride.

That year, PepsiCo's Mexico President awarded me the Circle of Champions and President's Outliers Honor, and handed me a Swiss Army pocketknife for being "multi-tool."

Core skills: Brand Innovation. New Product Development (NPD). Innovation Pipeline. Portfolio Management. Go-to-Market Strategy. Purpose-Driven Marketing. Cross-functional Leadership. Project Management. Stakeholder Management. Executive Presentations. P&L. Brand Activation. Cultural Marketing

PMO & Ideation Leader

November 2014 - December 2015 (1 year 2 months)

Mexico City Metropolitan Area

Not every career move is planned. This one wasn't.

While running SAP implementations in IT, I was invited to lead productivity and supply chain projects across PepsiCo, including the automation of 9 packaging lines. The role also had a people dimension I hadn't expected: training colleagues in project management methodology and executive presentations, leading indirectly without formal authority.

It was here that I crossed paths with the innovation team. Their product runs overlapped with my automation pilots, and that's where they got to see how I worked. When a spot opened in their team, I raised my hand.

IT Project Manager

April 2013 - November 2014 (1 year 8 months)

Mexico City

PepsiCo was my first corporate home, and I came in through the back door.

As IT Project Manager, I led SAP implementations and legacy system rollouts across multifunctional and multicultural teams. The technical work was solid, but what stood out was something else: how I worked with people across functions, cultures, and levels of seniority.

That visibility got me invited to something bigger.

Ataway

Jr. Consultant

June 2012 - March 2013 (10 months)

Mexico City

Project management and business administration.

Part of a multi-disciplined and diverse team.

Developing and implementing a new IT solution for the “Automated Centre of Distribution of Therapeutic Inputs” (CADI).

Oracle ERP PS User.

Worked non standard hours in order to fulfil the project's support.

WOW stores | Shana shops

Imports and Costumer Development / Visual Marketing

January 2011 - May 2012 (1 year 5 months)

Self taught and managed imports from USA, Europe, and Asia. 30 vessels per year.

Coordinated suppliers buyers, shippers, and customs agents, among others.

Introduced new vendors and reduced delivery time by up to 5 days per shipment.

Compliance, making sure rules and guidelines were followed all the time.

Created and launched 3 advertisement campaigns. For openings and sales.

J.P. Morgan

Intern in Global Technology Infrastructure.

August 2009 - September 2010 (1 year 2 months)

Mexico City Area, Mexico

Created 8 user manuals and procedure documents.

On-site support for 128 users, front desk staff to CEO.

Trained in time and project management.

Created the active eco-friendly campaign. Saving supplies and creating conscience.

Verizon DSL

Bilingual Customer Support Agent

January 2008 - August 2009 (1 year 8 months)

Education

Tecnológico de Monterrey

Master's degree, Business Administration and Management, General · (2027)

Tecnológico de Monterrey

Bachelor's degree in science - BSc, Information Technology Project Management

